'Getting Ready for School' Workshop for Year 2-6 Parents

As we start the new school term, some families may experience challenges in getting their children ready for school. This workshop will focus on establishing and maintaining structure throughout the school year in order to help their children develop healthy routines and schedules. Teaching children key social skills are an important component of their social development as they progress with their formal schooling. At KJS, our teachers, educational assistants and support staff work hand in hand to ensure the smooth transition as the students begin their new school year. The student counsellor will facilitate the discussion.

Goal: To provide support and assurance to KJS families, This workshop is for parents with year 2-6 students. The presentation will reinforce positive messages and strategies in which parents can establish at home with their children. We'll discuss the significance of developing clear norms and expectations. We'll also discuss and dissect the difference between rules versus norms as we teach children important life skills at home and at school. Lastly, we will highlight how the presentation dovetails with KJS AAROW's of success.

Date: 27 September

Location: Kowloon Junior School Library 1st floor

Time: 3-3:45pm

Attendees: KJS parents
