Dear Parents,

Next week we will be teaching part of our Relationships and Sexuality Education (RSE) curriculum. The lessons will be focussing on puberty and children being accurately able to identify male and female body parts.

As you may be aware from previous years the RSE curriculum is a curriculum which has been developed by a team of ESF staff with consultation from global experts. It encompasses learning in this area from Kindergarten through to Year 13. The rationale for the curriculum and the important part in plays in learning are in the shared presentation.

We are sharing with you the presentation so that you are aware of the elements of the programme and are able to sufficiently support your child. You will notice in the presentation that we will refer to previous learning in Year 5 as well as using picture books and animations to ensure understanding at an appropriate developmental level. The resources shared in the presentation are examples of what we will use and are not intended to be exhaustive.

The year 6 team have been carefully considering how the teaching and learning in this area looks different in an online setting and have adapted their resources and their teaching to suit the current situation. We have given very careful consideration to ensuring the learning environment will be a safe space for all to participate in their learning.

Success for Every Child

We ask for your support in helping to create an appropriate learning space for your child. We would recommend access to headphones, particularly for those children who will be learning in a shared space and may have younger siblings around, or older ones who they feel uncomfortable asking questions in front of.

If you have any questions regarding the content please contact your child's teacher or Mr Fay who oversees the RSE curriculum at KJS.

Kind regards,

The Year 6 team
